Difficult, 3.3 miles. Est. Time: 2 hours

Begin both Saddleback Mountain and South River Falls Loop Trails at the South River Maintenance Hut Road here.

1. Site of Luther Dean’s stave mill; Matilda Catherine Breeden “Aunt Cassie” rented a house here, where she cooked for mill workers; Site of earlier home of Bazil P. Shifflett, grandson of Thomas and Suzanna Wyant Shifflett in the late 1800s.

2. Two homes once stood here, the earliest one likely the home of Thomas and Susanna Wyant Shifflett. Later, their grandchildren, Lucretia and Newton Shifflett obtained the property. Newton’s son, Houston, lived here from 1904 to 1919.

3. Known today as the Saddleback Mountain Trail, this was a much earlier path locally called the “Shifflett Road,” as it connected various Shifflett families that lived on the mountain.

5. Property part of original Shifflett landholdings. Early home of Rufus and Lillie Shifflett; later home of Charlie Collier and his wife, Bertha Dean. Abandoned road leads back to Simeon and Millie Shifflett Collier’s homesite.

6. Sites of Interest

- Fence Posts on west side of the trail

- Fern Hill/Haney Cemetery. Community cemetery of at least 50 burials, shared by members of the Shifflett, Lam, Knighten, Haney and other families. Some burials brought in by hearse through Alec Haney’s land, since there was a road that connected Route 33 to the cemetery through his property.

- Lem’s Stave Mill. Established around 1900. Operated until the 1920s, employing many men from the community.

- John K. & Lula Haney’s Home Site. Their home once stood at the intersection of present-day Route 33 and Skyline Drive. They operated a store and service station next to their home.

- Site of Fern Hill Church, constructed in 1910 by the United Brethren Church, at a cost of $1,350.

- George Robert and Annie Florence Meadows Deane Housite. Owned early on by George and Emily Deane, and deeded to their son, “Bob” Deane around 1904. Couple raised fourteen children here, before Annie’s untimely death in 1916 at age 46.

- South River Falls. Every 4th of July, mountain families would meet at the falls and bring baskets of food to have picnics.
